MR. MONTAGU NORMAN CONFERS WITH PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT

VILLA BEAT WEDNESDAY AT SHEFFIELD

Spurs Garner Third
Point.

LEICESTER REVIVAL CONTINUES

London, To-day.
Aston Villa provided the sensation in yesterday's programme of sixteen soccer league games when they visited Sheffield and beat the Wednesday by the odd goal in three. On Saturday they were beaten at home by Leicester and the Wednesday took both points from Maine Road.

The Spurs collected their third point with a clean-cut win over the Wolves in their first season in the premier league for three years, and Leicester, who were struggling to evade relegation last season, registered their second win when they beat Sheffield United at Bramall Lane.

Leeds United showed a glimpse of their best form against the Borough at Elland Road and won by 5 goals to 2.

The Cottagers are to make a determined bid for promotion this season. Yesterday they just succeeded in beating Blackpool by the only goal scored, but it was sufficient to give them their fourth point in two games.

Millwall, another ambitious London Club, also secured their second win by a goal margin, and Bury, serious contenders for promotion last season, suffered a reverse at Port Vale. Oldham collected their first point against Southampton.

END WILSON WINS MEDAL ROUND.

Qualifies For U.S. Golf Championship.

RETURNS CARD OF 76

Highland Park, Illinois, To-day.
End Wilson, second only to Joyce Wethered in the history of the American Women's Championship yesterday, when she won the medal round over 18 holes on the Exmoor Country Club course with a card of 76.

Helen Hicks, the holder, Virginia Van Wie, and Maureen Orcutt all returned cards of 78.—Reuter.
Miss Wilson is making her last attempt on the "double"—the British and American titles—before her retirement from competitive golf. She has already won the British title.—Reuter.

Son Gives Security
Of $10,000.

Chicago, To-day.
Samuel Insull Jr. has forwarded as security the sum of $10,000 in answer to the indictment charging him and two others with violation of the bankruptcy laws, as in the case of his father, the former millionaire industrialist who was arrested in Athens on Saturday.—Reuter.

BERBER SHEIK SURRENDERS

Last Of Die-Hards.

PACIFICATION COMPLETED IN FRENCH MOROCCO

Rabat, Morocco, To-day.

Reduced to a choice of dying of thirst in his Great Atlas stronghold or surrendering with his weakened forces, Sheikh Ouskoubti, the last die-hard Berber chieftain, has surrendered to the French.

This action completes the pacification of French Morocco, with the exception of the Atlas region in the extreme South.—Reuter.

Sir Patrick Ramsay
Appointed.

London, To-day.
His Majesty the King has been graciously pleased to approve the appointment of the Honourable Sir Patrick Ramsay, K.C.M.G., C.B.E., His Majesty's Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary, at Athens since 1929, to be His Majesty's Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary to Budapest.—British Wireless Service.

BRITAIN'S "FLYING CRUISE" STARTS.

Four Flying Boats To Tour The Baltic.

London, To-day.
Four Southampton flying boats, comprising the 204th Flying Boat Squadron, Royal Air Force, left Plymouth yesterday on a three weeks' cruise to the Baltic in connection with "British Week" which opens in Finland on September 4. The flying-boats made their first stop at Felixstowe, and are proceeding to Copenhagen and Stockholm and then to Helsinki. By the time they return they will have covered approximately 8,500 nautical miles.—British Wireless Service.

AGREEMENT REACHED ON COAL CODE

Washington, To-day.
General Hugh Johnson estimates that 80 per cent. of the United States industries are now operating under the Industrial Recovery Administration.—United Press, per S. C. Gold Bar Co.

Speeding-Up The Recovery Plan.

ROOSEVELT CONFERS WITH ICKES.

Hyde Park, New York, To-day.
The methods for speeding up the Recovery Plan were discussed during conversations between President Roosevelt and Mr. Harold C. Ickes, Secretary for the Interior, after which the latter declared that he favoured withdrawal of allotments from the Fund in cases where the projects were not started within a specified period.—Reuter.

Coal Owners And

U.S. WILL REDUCE WHEAT ACREAGE

$125,000,000 To Be Paid
In Bounties.

LOWERING PRODUCTION BY
124,000,000 BUSHELS

Washington, To-day.
The United States Secretary of Agriculture, Mr. Henry C. Wallace, has formally announced a 15 per cent. reduction of wheat acreage.
The announcement follows the London Wheat Agreement, the reduction being tentatively decided upon last Friday.
Mr. Wallace has estimated that the wheat acreage reduction will reduce planting by 9,600,000 acres and production by 124,000,000 bushels.
He added that the American supplement to the London Wheat agreement was expected to be signed to-day.
Details are at present not divulged.—Reuter.

Curtailment Of Sowing.

CROP DESTRUCTION
NOT DESIRED.

Washington, To-day.
In seeking reduction of wheat acreage, the United States Secretary of Agriculture states that he desires curtailment of sowing rather than destruction of crops. He urges farmers to immediately plan a drastic lowering of production, pointing out that a total of $125,000,000 will be paid in bounties.
This money will continue to be available from the wheat processing tax amounting to 30 cents per bushel.—United Press, per S. C. Gold Bar Co.

QUEEN MARY LEAVES FOR BALMORAL

Yorkshire Visit Ended

London, To-day.
Her Majesty the Queen yesterday ended her visit to her daughter and son-in-law, the Princess Royal, Countess of Harewood, and Lord Harewood, and left Yorkshire by train for Deeside, where she will rejoin the King at Balmoral Castle.

GOLD DROPS 7 1/2 IN LONDON

Excited Demand For Gold Shares.

BRITISH RAILS ADVANCE

London, To-day.
Yesterday's fall of 7 1/2 in the price of gold caused some profit-taking on the London market, but not enough to withstand the demand for gold shares. Substantial advances were made.

Kaffirs were mainly affected, but West Africans, Indians, and West Australians all went up. Johannesburg telegrams report excited dealings upon which yesterday's drop in gold price had only a slight effect.

Another main feature of the London Stock Market, yesterday, was the continuance of the steady rise in Home rails.

British funds were inactive, War Loan, 3 1/2 per cent., closing at 99 1/2.—British Wireless Service.

SLIGHT DECLINE ON WALL ST.

Considerable Silver
Switching.

New York, To-day.
A steady tone pervaded Wall Street yesterday, stocks showing little fluctuation following last week's advance. The Administration's denials of the inflation rumours tends to make traders cautious.

The principal feature of silver was switching. The easiness of the other markets had a sympathetic influence. Banks and speculators sold.

Rails advanced 23 to 53.60, but industrial, utilities and bonds experienced slight declines. Business was average, 2,120,000 shares being traded.

LOCAL DOLLAR STEADY.

Silver Declines 1/8.

The dollar is unchanged to-day, opening at 1/4 3/8.
Silver, both spot and forward, declined 1/8 yesterday, the closing quotations being 17 13/16 and 17 15/16 respectively.
The cross rate, London on New York, is 6-64.51 1/2 and New York on London 6-64.51 1/2.

Great Shyok Dam Bursts Again In The Himalayas

Reports of the bursting of the great Shyok Dam in the Himalayas have been confirmed.
When the dam burst in 1929 disastrous floods caused loss of life and much damage to property, but the present floods are not so serious and are not likely to last long.
The waters are expected to reach the Sukkur Barrage in Sind, in a week's time, when they will be dissipated.—Reuter.

MONETARY POLICIES

NO INTEREST
EVINCED ON WALL STREET

Foreign Exchange
Market Unchanged.

U. S. RETAIL FOOD PRICES
RISE

New York, To-day.

No interest was shown yesterday on Wall Street in the meeting between President Roosevelt Mr. Montagu Norman Governor of the Bank of England, and Mr. Harrison, which is believed to be discussing the monetary policies of Great Britain and America.

There was no reaction on the foreign exchange market, which showed little activity.

The Governor of New York State yesterday suspended the anti-trust laws in order to permit full operation of the National Recovery Act within the State's borders.

The Labour Department's survey of retail food prices shows that groceries to-day cost 18 per cent. above this year's lowest level, which was recorded in April.—Reuter.

"NO BUSINESS TRANSACTION"

Roosevelt Calls It A Social Gathering.

Hyde Park, New York, To-day.

"No business was transacted, it was merely a social gathering," announced President Roosevelt, after his meeting with the Governor of the Bank of England, Mr. Montagu Norman and Mr. Harrison following a tea attended by others unconnected with official life.

Previously, Mr. Norman was a guest, at luncheon, of the Federal Reserve Board. The function was attended by Mr. Harrison, Mr. Eugene Black, governor of the Board, and prominent bankers.—Reuter.

WORLD'S COTTON SUPPLY LESS

Big Decrease In U.S.
Stocks.

New York, To-day.
The world supply of cotton this season will total 29,407,000 bales, as compared with 40,640,000 bales last season, according to figures published yesterday by the Cotton Exchange.

The American supply will total 24,253,000 bales, representing a decrease of 1,931,000 bales, while the foreign supply will be 15,154,000, showing an increase of 672,000 bales.—United Press, per S. C. Gold Bar Co.

WARNING OF WAR DANGER IN PACIFIC

Banff Delegate's
Speech.

A PACIFIC SOCIALIST
ORGANISATION?

Banff, Alberta, To-day.
Tentative plans for the formation of a Pacific Socialist organisation, sponsored by Lord Snell, were made at yesterday's Conference of the Institute of Pacific Relations, with the object of furthering the movement for a League of Pacific Nations, in order to ensure peace and solve mutual economic problems.

The conclusion of the Conference was marked by the speech of Mr. W. Downie Stewart, the former New Zealand Finance Minister, who warned delegates that unless immediate steps were taken to create peace machinery, there was a grave danger of war.

No resolutions were passed, but the heads of the delegations announced that the meetings had been most most illuminating, beneficial and amicable.—Reuter.

Among the questions dealt with by the Fifth Conference of the Institute of Pacific Relations, were those of naval preparedness in the Pacific, tariffs, trade restrictions, international commodity agreements, shipping subsidies, Philippine independence, and the United States Exclusion Act against Orientals.

JAPANESE CRUISER'S VISIT CANCELLED

Ordered To Foochow To Protect Nationals.

JAPANESE ANXIETY OVER
"RED" SITUATION

The Japanese Light Cruiser, Isuzu, of 5,170 tons, standard displacement, which was expected to arrive in the Colony this morning, has cancelled her visit, having been ordered to Foochow.

The reason given is the growing anxiety felt by the Japanese Government for the safety of Japanese residents in both Foochow and Amoy, where the drive against the Communists has resulted in open warfare.

Admiral on Board.

Confirming the report that the Isuzu would not call at Hong Kong, the Japanese Consul-General informed the China Mail that although Rear-Admiral Yamamouchi was on board, the ship was flying the captain's flag, and in the event of the vessel calling in at Hong Kong, Rear-Admiral Yamamouchi would not have made a formal call.

The future movements of the ship had not yet been determined, he stated, but he expected that it would stay at Foochow until the extent of the trouble had been ascertained.

Since the Isuzu had called off her trip to Hong Kong, the gunboat, Saga, would not leave Canton.

Official Tokyo
Order.

TWO DESTROYERS ALSO GOING.

Tokyo, To-day.

The Navy Office has announced the despatch of the cruiser "Isuzu" and two destroyers to Mawei, near Foochow, owing to the near approach of Communist troops causing unrest.—Reuter.

SWITZERLAND SEND PROTEST TO GERMANY

Violation Of Frontier
Arouses Indignation.

THREE GERMANS CAPTURE
CZECHOSLOVAKIAN

Basle, To-day.

The Government of Switzerland have formally protested to Berlin against the repeated violation of the Swiss frontier which has aroused a storm of indignation throughout Switzerland.

The latest incident concerns a Czechoslovakian who was known to be smuggling sugar into Germany. He was seized by three Germans near the frontier and dragged into German territory, despite the rescue efforts of a Swiss Customs officer.—Reuter.

The latest incident to cause concern to the Swiss authorities occurred on August 14, when German Customs officers arrested and imprisoned two Swiss picnicers, while on a small island on the Rhine. The German officials claim that the island is German territory, and that the picnicers were Communists.

A previous incident occurred shortly before, when a party of

THE UNIVERSAL TONIC For Blood & Nerves.

In seventy-two countries and under the most varied climatic conditions, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills still maintain the reputation they achieved fifty years ago. Over all this long period sick people have continued to find new health and strength and relief from sickness in the blood-creating, nerve-strengthening properties of this supremely successful remedy.

There have been many emulators of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills; but the formula of this blood and nerve tonic was the great achievement of a distinguished medical practitioner and since its discovery none of its imitators has succeeded in producing anything which so rapidly rehabilitates the blood stream. During the past half century many tests have been made upon the formula of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. And recently very searching group tests were conducted by a highly qualified physician to gauge the exact effect of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills upon the bloodstream of anemic cases.

The results of these tests demonstrated in a degree which astonished the physician that the formula increased the blood count and improved the percentage of haemoglobin. This means in simple language that the quality and quantity of the blood was improved.

Acting in this way Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have proved themselves definitely to be the specific remedy for anaemia (blood impoverishment) and the group of ailments resulting therefrom, which includes: nerve troubles, dyspepsia and digestive troubles, malnutrition, pallor and emaciation, premature age, physical weakness, back pains, insomnia, rheumatism, sciatica, lumbago, women's ailments. After malaria and other weakening ailments Dr. Williams' Pink Pills also prove an excellent restorative. All chemists can supply you with this genuinely successful blood and nerve tonic.

GLAMOROUS GOWNS FOR SUMMER

Trim Little Suits Supplanted.

WIDE-BRIMMED HATS

This—the very tip-top of the season—is the time to discover afresh the charm of the English woman and the genius of the English dress designers. Gone for the moment, is the tailor silhouette, gone are the trim little suits and tiny high hats every one has been wearing. Brought out like flowers by the sunshine come wonderful designs, lovely glamorous gowns of chiffon, organdi, lace and georgette, crowned by wide-brimmed hats with beautiful sweeping lines.

Picture yourself at a garden party in a frock of organdi in black and white plaid, mounted over a taffeta slip that gives it an almost Victorian stiffness and rustle, and worn with a wide, shallow-crowned hat of white. An ensemble of flowered crepe de chine, with filmy crepe de chine gauntlets, a black hat trimmed with the flowers of the crepe de chine cut out and cleverly mounted as a wreath. A dress of honey beige taffeta and a ruffled taffeta cape of tiny frills, a beige straw hat slotted with wide-black taffeta ribbon.

A spreading wide organdi gown, with big black spots, and a hat of black tulle, stitched with swirling lines to give it firmness and trimmed with a large white organdi bow.

Evening frocks have also taken a romantic turn, and some of the very newest, are little more than floating spreading clouds of tulle. For the young girl, tulle is used alone; for the matron it is cleverly combined with satin or velvet to give a more sophisticated air. These lovely gowns have by no means banished the statelier ones of the earlier season, and semi-classical styles are still to the fore. One of the leading designers has just produced a beautiful dress of heavy crepe in narrow black and white stripes; its line is almost severely straight, and over the shoulders, crossing at the back, and cascading down the front of the skirt go broad bands of cerise velvet lined with black crepe satin ribbon. Printed evening gowns are important, and often show new effects.

One is worn just now by a leading actress in a play, its lovely pattern of roses printed only on the back, leaving the front of the skirt quite plain; two delicate rose sprays curve round the bodice. A striking dress recently shown was a fine lace and open mesh net in a deep shade of apricot; it was cut on mediaeval lines, with a low waist line and very long sleeves that ended almost on the wearer's fingers.

Menu Suggestions For To-morrow

Tiffin
Stuffed Onions
Cornish Pasties
Lettuce and Egg Salad
Coffee Eclairs
Dinner
Rice Soup
Fish Pie
Ham with Currant Jelly Sauce
Fruit Salad
Rhubarb Whip
Ginger Ale Cup
Stuffed Onions

6 large onions; 1 oz. boned vermicelli; 1/2 oz. bread crumbs; 1/4 oz. melted butter; 1 egg; 1 teaspoon cream or milk; 1 teaspoon chopped parsley; 1 teaspoon salt; 1/4 teaspoon grated lemon rind; 1/4 teaspoon mixed herbs; 1/4 teaspoon pepper; 1 1/2 oz. butter for baking. Boil the onions in salted water for half an hour, then remove the skins and scoop out the centres. Chop these very finely and add to the other ingredients, including the egg, and stir well. Fill the onions with this mixture, place them in a baking dish containing the ounce of butter and bake three hours with a cover over them. Baste them occasionally. Serve with the gravy.

Rice Soup
1/2 pint rice; 3 pints water; 1 pint milk; 1 1/2 oz. butter; 1 large turnip; 1 large onion; 1 large potato; 1 teaspoon salt. Place the butter in a large saucepan and let it melt so as to grease the whole of the bottom of the pan. Wash the rice and place it with the vegetables sliced in the saucepan and boil for about 1/2 hour, stirring frequently. Add milk and salt and simmer carefully for about 2 1/2 quarters of an hour taking care that it does not burn.

Ham with Currant Jelly Sauce.
Melt 1 tablespoon butter, add 1/2 cup currant jelly, whipped with a fork. When melted add 1/4 cup sherry and a few grains paprika. Heat 2 cups thin slices of cold boiled ham in sauce. Serve middle of each slice of ham and a devilled olive cut in half, crosswise, set in centre of each dash of paprika.

Rhubarb Whip.
Some stewed rhubarb; 1 yolk and 2 egg whites; some cream;

1 gill milk; 1/4 oz. gelatine; sugar; cochineal. Drain the syrup from the rhubarb and rub sufficient fruit through a sieve to make half a pint of pulp. When stewing the rhubarb, cook it without water, either in a casserole in the oven or in a double boiler. Make a boiled custard with the yolk of egg and milk and when cold add it to the rhubarb pulp. Whisk the cream until it is thick. Add half of it to the rhubarb and keep back the remainder for decorating. Dissolve the gelatine in half a gill of rhubarb syrup and strain it into the rhubarb puree, mixing it lightly and adding sugar to taste and a few drops of cochineal. When the mixture begins to thicken whisk the whites of the eggs stiffly and fold them into the mixture. Turn into custard cups and leave to set. Decorate with cream.

Ginger Ale Cup
Mix 1/3 cup Maraschino cherries, cut in halves, 1/3 cup Benedictine, 2 tablespoons lime juice, 1/2 cup loaf sugar, 4 thin shavings cucumber rind and 2 quarts bottled ginger ale. Fill a glass jug to half its depth with cracked ice. Pour half the first mixture over ice and garnish with thin slices of lemon and orange, discarding the pips. Garnish with sprigs of fresh mint leaves, dusted over with Tal-koo sugar and arrange in jug. Put remainder of mixture closely covered in a cool place until ready for use.

Oatmeal Cloth Suit.

A brown "oatmeal" cloth suit was recently seen with the coat semi-fitting and half length, and cut on classic habit lines, with, however, two linked crystal and chromium buttons appearing at the waist-line, which, by the way, is a little longer.

The swallow-tail coat, bound with black braid, is another variation, and one advance model of this type had its skirt so tight that it appeared more like a man's trousers under the little coat. This particular skirt was slit at the hip, at back and front, to enable the wearer to move at all.

The Metal Vogue Continues

Brown For Afternoon And Receptions.

CORNFLOWER BLUE

The metal vogue appears likely to continue, and is an admirable method of introducing brighter touches on sports clothes of neutral tones. A smart frock of oatmeal cloth in grey, fastened up the front with hooks and eyes made in ivory and black enamel, looks well. The black felt sailor hat has a similar ornament in the front with a silver fox to complete the scheme.

For afternoon and receptions a dark brown satin suit worn with a lighter shade of fox, almost cinnamon colour, is considered the latest note in smart simplicity. A satin or faille suit in dark colours is an excellent choice for the "between season." The canvas suit is another useful model for the late holiday, especially abroad.

Coarse canvas deck-coats in a beige brown lined with pale green stockinette look very smart with a green wool beret and scarf. Many of these big ulster styles are fastened with wood and metal buttons, dull silver and platinum being considered more striking than gold.

So far as colours go, the only fashionable alternative to white this autumn will be cornflower blue—a peculiar shade with a purple tint. Whether it will survive the "between" season is doubtful, for, although it is a lovely shade for hats, it is far from becoming for frocks. Fashion at this season of the year is always reactionary.

Navy and white is always smart, and this clivid blue will be far more wearable when white is introduced as well.

SWAGGER COATS

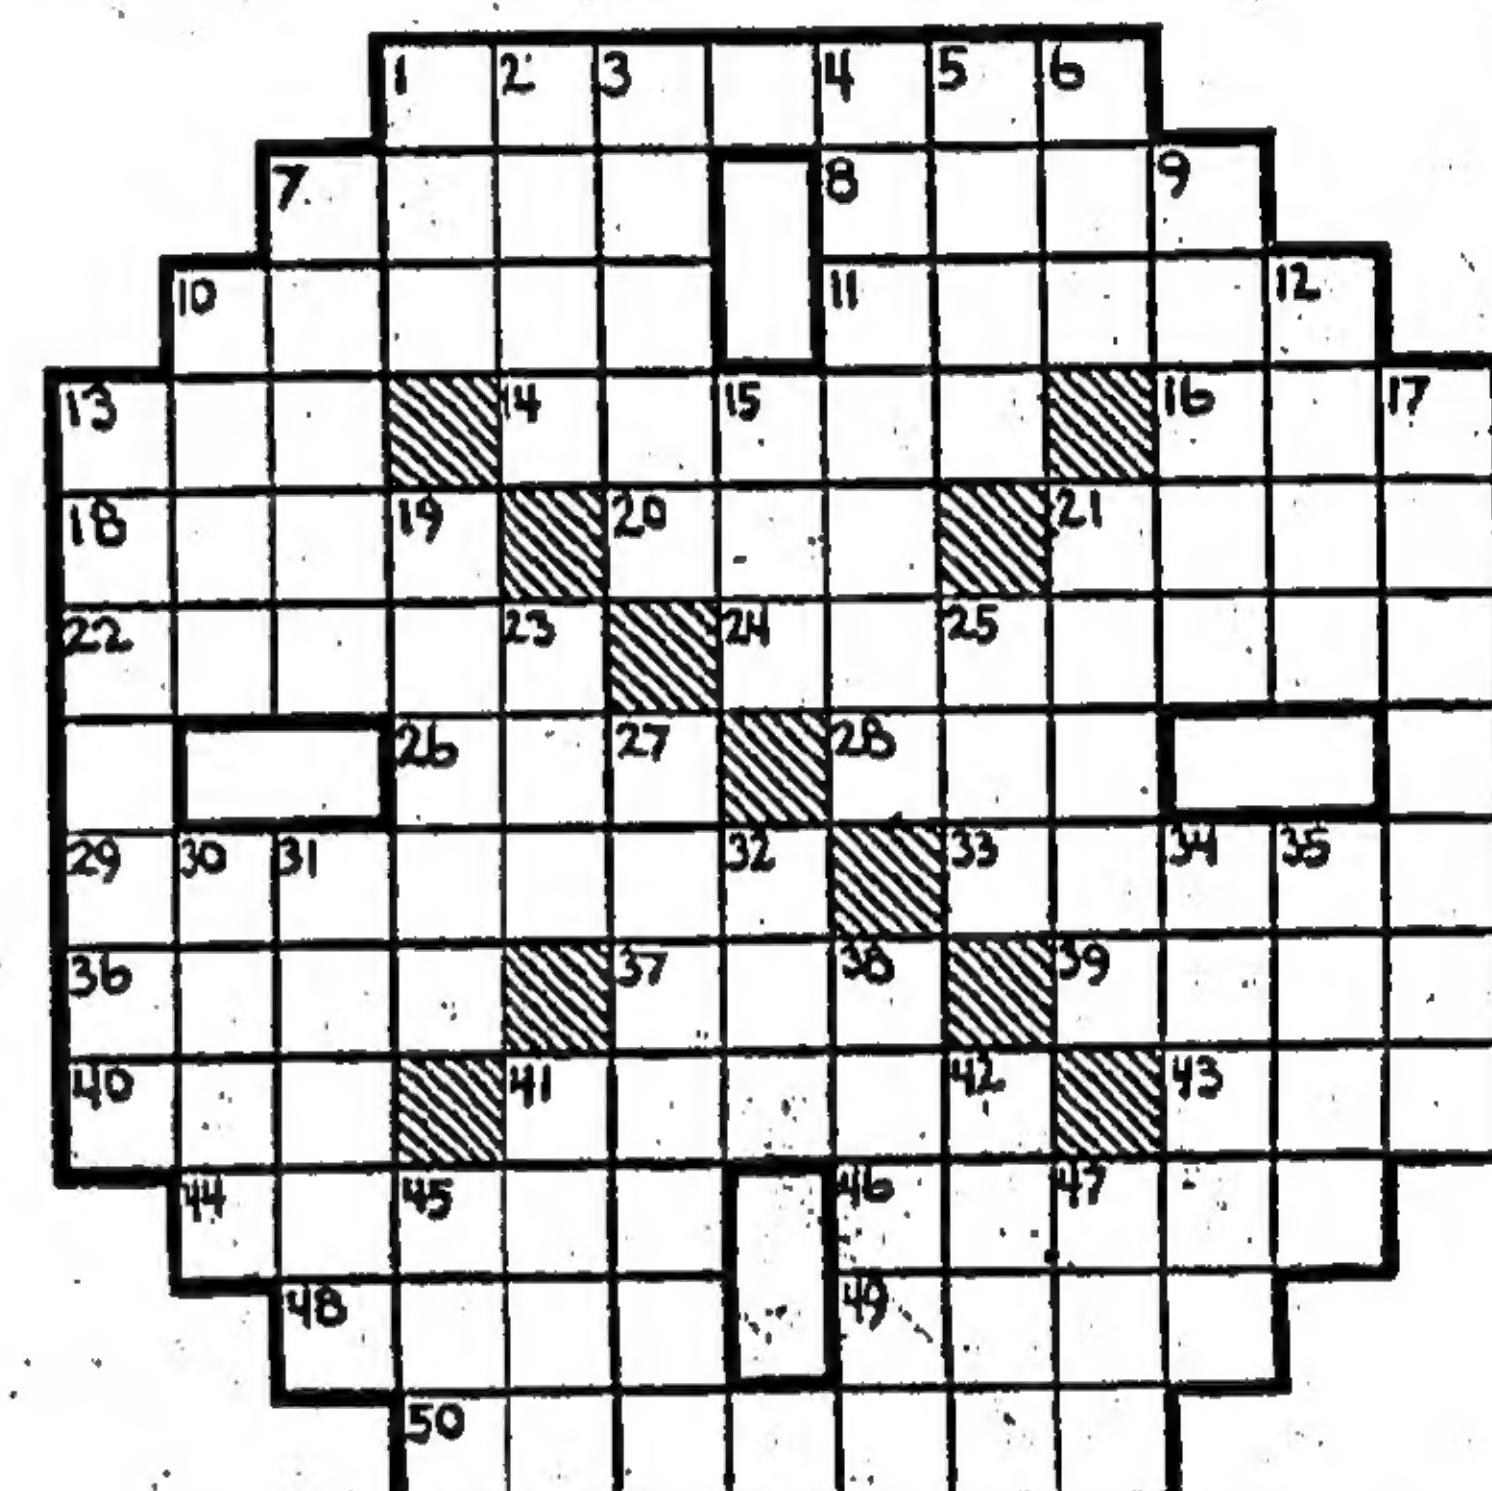

"Swagger" coats continue to swagger, but it has been noticed that some of the newer versions are on the short side, and almost resemble the fly-away sac type of coat that is a favourite holiday accessory, but in bright colours. Coat collars have a new look. Those for travel favour the straight military shape, others introduce two fabrics, in rather a novel way. For instance, white plique is inserted in navy serge, the navy material being drawn over the white.

BRIDGE NOTES

THE PLAY OF THE DUMMY

By ELY CULBERTSON

There is no word heard more frequently at the Contract table than the word "if." "If I had done this" or "If you had done that" are the starting points of many a heated postmortem. These post-mortems are both interesting and instructive when intelligent, but the master player should so play his cards as to eliminate all post-mortems on the play except the laudatory "Well played, partner."

This hand, played in a recent national championship contest by Mr. Barney Foster of Chicago, merited that encomium.

West had the opening from a peculiarly difficult hand and elected to make the detective lead of the Queen of clubs. As almost every player would do, Mr. Foster read this as showing the Ace in the East hand and refused to play the King. This was sound play. West next followed with the Ace of clubs, which Mr. Foster trumped. Ordinary procedure in the handling of this hand would be to discard a losing spade on the established King of clubs, and then leave the fate of the declaration to the favourable location of the diamond.

King. Mr. Foster, however, adopted much more accurate methods. After winning the second trick, he led a small spade to the Dummy and followed with the King of clubs upon which he discarded his loser in the spade suit. When West played a low club it was apparent that the club suit would break 4-1. Therefore a small club was led and trumped in the closed hand. The next lead was a spade which was taken in the Dummy and Dummy's last spade led and trumped by the Declarer. Now Mr. Foster led a small diamond which was won with Dummy's Ace and a small diamond returned. He thus lost 1 club and 2 diamond tricks, but eliminated entirely the possibility of losing a trump trick as it did not matter from which side the trump was led, nor where the Queen was located. By careful planning the luck of the finesse or the chance of an uneven break in the suit had been eliminated.

Converting Losers Into Winners. Contract Bridge in the bidding is an exchange of information between the partners and, in fact, between all the players at the table. The bids made, as well as the passes, are significant and the strong player always takes advantage of the information he has obtained in the bidding as a guide to the subsequent play.

The hand below, played recently in a New York club, is an excellent example of utilizing knowledge of suit distribution and the probable location of adverse honours to make a contract which seemed doomed to defeat.

Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.

1—North's Raise is conservative. Actually, his hand contains 5 playing-tricks with spades as trump and hence two Raises.

2—East, not vulnerable, has a justifiable Over-call, as any loss might be offset by the honour count. Besides, he has an apparently safe escape in hearts.

3—South has more than sufficient strength for a Rebid.

4—West's pass is perhaps timid, but he fears to drive his opponents into a game declaration.

5—North now gives his second Raise, which he could have given on the first round of bidding.

6—Both East and West are misled by the bidding of North and South into feeling that there is a good chance of defeat if the contract and hence it would be unwise to overbid to save the game.

West opened a small club and when South took stock of the hands it seemed that he must probably lose two clubs and two diamonds, as West's immediate Overcall of the Opening bid appeared to locate the diamond Ace in his hand. However, East's bid of clubs seemed to indicate at least a five-card suit and so South played the hand on the this assumption. He permitted the first round of clubs to be won by East's King and East returned the suit, the trick being taken by the Ace in Dummy. A small diamond was immediately led from Dummy and when East played low, South played the eight and West won with the Ten. West was faced with a lack of desirable leads, but led the King of hearts, which South won with the Ace, and next led the King of diamonds, which West, of course, won. A heart was returned and trumped in the Dummy and the third round of diamonds led, establishing two good diamonds in the Dummy. The adverse trumps were drawn and a losing club discarded on Dummy's food diamond.

By accurate reading of the adverse holdings, South had reduced his losing tricks by one and thus made his contract.

JEW WROTE GERMAN NATIONAL ANTHEM

Berlin Journalist's Discovery.

NAZIS EMBARRASSED.

Nazi headquarters are greatly embarrassed by the discovery that the famous flag song, the official anthem of the German navy, is the work of a Jew.

Even the Kaiser loved to hear this song, which begins with the words: "Proudly the black-white-red flag is flying."

It is so popular and patriotic that Bernhard Prieue included it in the official "National Socialist Song Book." It was intended that only gems of German poetry should have a place in this collection.

Herr Prieue apparently did not know that Robert Linderer, the author of the song, was a Jew, and hence (according to Nazi ideas) a man who could not think patriotically.

Proof that Linderer was a Jew was discovered by a Berlin journalist who visited the Jewish cemetery in Weissensee, near Berlin.

A white marble tombstone bears the following inscription: Robert Linderer

Born November 25, 1824
Died December 10, 1886

"Here rests the author of the flag song with which the German sailors fight and die for the victory and glory of the Fatherland. The Jewish Community of Berlin."—Reuter.

THE MICKEY TWINS.

Engagement At King's Theatre.

The Mickey Twins, American negroes, known in America as the dancers with "educated feet" will make their formal debut on the stage in Hong Kong on September 8, from which date they will appear exclusively at the King's Theatre.

In America they are said to have been the star entertainers of a number of leading night clubs, also appearing with several musical comedy shows.

The Mickey Twins are proteges of Irene West, who gained fame as a recording artist a few years ago and who has since been responsible for the blossoming forth of numbers of luminaries of the theatrical world.

The Twins are stopping off here en route to Paris, where they state they have an engagement with the Folies Bergere.

Tests of a new train which hurtles along a single rail at enormous speed are to be made in Moscow.

The single-rail is raised on trestles, and the cars are double in the form of a saddle.

Each of these cars will hold from 80 to 100 passengers and will be equipped with two 330 h.p. motors. It is hoped that these "trains of the future" will achieve a speed of 190 miles per hour—more than three miles a minute.—Reuter.

IDEAL HOMES IN SWEDEN.Sunshine Houses For Workers.

A colony of workers' homes in Stockholm, Sweden, has just been completed. The houses, facing south, are built on a sloping site, and are planned as a one-storey continuous building with a three-storey portion on the crest.

As a result each house has uninterrupted sunshine and an unobstructed view. For this reason also the houses are built with flat roofs.

Each house contains two rooms, kitchen, porch and a basement workshop. The three-storey part contains about fifty apartments, consisting of one room and a kitchen. The entire colony is heated by one central heating plant. The one-storey group is of wood frame construction; the three-storey part of brick.

England - Australia
Aerial ServicePart Of Regular Empire
Defence Scheme

IMPERIAL AIRWAYS' CONDITIONS

Sydney, July 10.
It is understood that all negotiations respecting the aerial mail service between England and Australia have related not merely to the need for rapid transport between London and Sydney, but to strategic considerations and the fact that the new mail service would be an auxiliary to the regular defence scheme, if needed; the object being to operate the aerial lines as a single unit for the purpose.

It is further stated that, if the Australia-England route is sectionalised, Imperial Airways, Ltd., will not tender for the Australia-Singapore service. In any circumstances, it will not tender for any intra-Australia service.

It was anticipated that the conditions governing tenders for the future Australian air mail contracts would have been made available at the end of last week by the Federal Government. That they were not accepted in aviation circles as an assumption that the conditions are being reconsidered by the technical advisers and responsible Ministers prior to the final submission to the Federal Cabinet. There is reason to believe that this is so.

During recent weeks increased attention has been given to the possibilities of developing the Northern Territory. British interests have under consideration important schemes for that area. These are certain to be favourably considered by the Federal Government. Transport is an outstanding factor in all these developmental schemes. That can be economically and satisfactorily provided only by aeroplane. An effective aerial trunk line service brings Darwin within two or, at most, three days' journey from Sydney.

Further, the strategic importance of Darwin has rapidly become a first-rate issue with the defence departments of Britain and Australia. Recent happenings in the Pacific have caused the British and United States Governments to concentrate on Singapore and Philippine bases. The extension of the naval and military garrisons at Darwin follows as a natural corollary. Aerial transport is essential for the rapid movement of personnel between Singapore and Darwin. It is doubly important for rapid communication between Sydney and Melbourne and Darwin. There is every probability that within a very few years the garrison at Darwin will be regarded as one of the greatest significance in Australia.

Serious Matters.
These are matters now receiving very serious consideration by the naval and military establishments in Australia. It has been represented to the Federal Government that there are neither aeroplanes nor flying boats in Australia capable of satisfactorily meeting urgent national requirements. The defect will probably be remedied, to some extent, in the forthcoming naval, military, and air force estimates. It is, however, now realised that the new aerial mail contracts can be made to form an efficient auxiliary to the regular defence scheme. It is realised by experts that, to do this with even moderate satisfaction, having regard to probable early national requirements, there must be reliable and commodious passenger-carrying machines on the main aerial trunk line, giving rapid communication between both Singapore and Darwin and Sydney.

It is also accepted by the Governments of the British Commonwealth of nations that such a service must be dominated by British interests, so that it may be possible to use the resources of the different services as a single unit should the necessity for doing so hurriedly arise. Such contingencies are carefully safeguarded respecting the trunk line services between Singapore and London, and between Capetown and London. All these services are controlled directly or indirectly, by Imperial Airways, Limited, and could be converted into defence units at a moment's notice.

The section of the trunk line between London and Karachi is controlled absolutely by Imperial Airways, Limited. The extensions from there to Singapore, via Calcutta and Rangoon, are controlled by an Indian company, in which Imperial Airways, Limited, owns 51 per cent. of the share capital. The agreement with the Indian Government is that the section between Karachi and Singapore shall be dually run on a fifty-fifty basis by Imperial Airways, Ltd., and the Indian company, so that the British control will be really 75 per cent. between Singapore and Karachi, and 100 per cent. between Karachi and London.

Local Indian companies run feeder services between Bombay and Karachi and between Delhi and Karachi. Additional feeder services for the new sections will be organised as soon as circumstances warrant.

On the London-Capetown trunk route Imperial Airways, Ltd., controls the section between London and Kisumu in the Kenya Colony. The section over Egypt, the Sudan, and Uganda is directed exclusively from London. The section south of Kisumu is directed from Capetown by a local company in which Imperial Airways, Ltd., holds a controlling interest. There are feeder services along different sections of the trunk line which should be run in the southern African route which conjunction with the other British link up with the trunk line. These feeder lines provide ordinary transport over large tracts of country which previously had only the most primitive means of travel. It took weeks to cover a journey now done

NEW MANCHURIAN
RAILWAY.Tunghua-Tumen Line To Be Opened.

Dairen.

It is announced that the newly-completed Tunghua-Tumen railway will be opened to traffic on June 8.

As the eastern terminus of the new line will be connected by a regular steamship service with the western coast of Japan, it is planned to connect the railway with the Kirin-Tunghua and the Kirin-Changchun lines and to operate through trains between Changchun and Yuki, the port near the Korean-Manchoukuo border where the Tunghua-Tumen line ends.

This will enable travellers to journey from Changchun to Tokyo in about 50 hours.

The first batch of 45 open freight cars ordered from Japan has already reached Antung and will be transported to the Tunghua-Tumen railway for use on that line.

in a day, or less, by air.

Co-ordinated Imperial Services.
The transcendently important aspect of all these services, from the Imperial point of view, is that they are co-ordinated and are capable of being brought under united direction without any dislocation of the ordinary administrative routine. It is hoped that a similar arrangement may be come to respecting the trunk line service to an Australian terminal. Australian Empire Airways, Limited, is incorporated locally with an Australian directorate, and in which Australian capital will be largely invested. This company has formed a working arrangement, but without absorption, with Queensland and Northern Territory Aerial Services, Limited. Mr. Hudson Fysh, the managing director of this company, is travelling by the Astraea to London to consult with the directors of Imperial Airways, Ltd., concerning the future activities of both companies in Australia.

It is now definitely understood that Imperial Airways, Ltd., is not in any way interested in the purely local Australian aerial services. It will not compete with Qantas or the West Australian Company, or any other organisation or company for any sectional services in Australia. If the Federal Government should decide to sectionalise all the contracts from Singapore onwards for the proposed new service Imperial Airways, Ltd., has definitely stated that it will not tender. The consultations which have taken place with representatives of the British Government, the Federal Government, and the directors of Imperial Airways, Ltd., have all related to the establishment of a direct aerial trunk line service between London and Sydney. It is felt to be extremely desirable that this object should be accomplished for strategic and other national reasons, as well as for the fostering of rapid transport between Australia and England.

Comfort For Passengers.
In all these consultations it has been emphasised that to encourage travel by air between Australia and London it is essential that through passengers be assured of safety as well as good catering and service on the journey. That has been assured on the Indian and African routes, with the result that on almost all the trips the big monoplanes travel with from 75 to 100 per cent. capacity passenger load.

Reference to map published on another page shows the favoured route for the trunk line service between Singapore and Sydney. It also shows the trunk line route between Darwin and Perth, on which the passenger carrying capacity of the aeroplanes to be used need not be so great as on the main line to Sydney.

Other feeder routes are also indicated. Many of these lines are being run at present and giving very valuable service to sparsely populated communities. For instance, the Qantas service last month carried 234 passengers, on single stages of its route, as well as 5987 lb. of freight. The company's aeroplanes flew 20,281 miles for the month, and their record to the end of last month was 1,921,595 miles.

In none of these services is Imperial Airways interested. It holds that the policy in Australia, as in Africa by a local company in which Imperial Airways, Ltd., holds a controlling interest. There are feeder services along different sections of the trunk line which should be run in the southern African route which conjunction with the other British link up with the trunk line. These feeder lines provide ordinary transport over large tracts of country which previously had only the most primitive means of travel. It took weeks to cover a journey now done

U.S. Stock Market Illusions.

To practical men of affairs the recent sudden break in prices in the United States, both on the Stock Exchange and in the commodity markets, caused no surprise. It was only in political circles that it caused amazement and consternation. It had been recognized by every one of ordinary experience that at some point, in view of the scope and violence of the preceding rise and the highly speculative character of the buying, severe reaction would become inevitable. The reaction may have been more severe than was anticipated. But when wheat had risen 65 cents a bushel in four months and cotton 80 per cent, when stocks had advanced on the average 51 points from the low March figure—all three movements being virtually uninterrupted—some drastic readjustment was reasonably to be expected. It was certainly not made less probable by the volume to which "margin speculation" had risen. In no other way could the Stock Exchange transactions of seven or eight million shares, on various preceding days, be accounted for. Not only had Wall Street "brokers' loans," the familiar barometer of 1929, increased $592,000,000 since April, or 187 per cent, but the "outside public's" participation in the speculative commodity markets had, on a smaller scale, begun to suggest reminder of 1920. The case was not necessarily that of prices for stocks or commodities raised to intrinsically preposterous levels, but of a speculation conducted impulsively on borrowed money, with a view to "realizing profits." It was manifest that, when any large-scale "realizing" actually should begin, every one would rush in to sell at once. Recollection of the rapid though not at all unwarranted advance in such markets, on the ending of previous depressions, brought also remembrance of the 12-point fall of stocks in a few Autumn weeks of 1922, after the sweeping rise from the year's low level, and the 20-cent break of wheat in the Autumn of 1897, after a 53-cent continuous advance. On those occasions, as in the present instance, recovery of trade had warranted emphatic rise in prices, and the trade recovery continued after the market's readjustment. Usually, it is true, it was discovered later that the excited markets had expected too much in the way of immediate results, and that, after the first and extremely rapid increase of production to make good depleted inventories, recovery proceeded at a slower pace. No doubt that will happen during 1933. But the excessive violence of reaction on the present occasion is possibly to be explained, not alone by the scope of the previous rise in prices, but by the fact that the speculation had been based on certain exceptional illusions. One of these was the idea that, because the rise in prices was based upon "inflation," it could not possibly be arrested. But there has been no currency inflation; on the contrary, the Federal Reserve's computation of money in circulation in America was $7,269,000,000 in March and $5,635,000,000 at the time of the stock crash. This great reduction was caused primarily by release of hoarded Reserve notes, and their return to the banks of issue when it was found that channels of trade would not absorb them. But even when this fact could not be overlooked, the speculative markets insisted that the dollar's depreciation on international exchange was equivalent to "inflation," and the talk of "restoring the 1926 price level"—in other words, of pushing up average prices 31 per cent, further still—had led to the idea that the rise already effected was only half of what was immediately ahead. In real life, prices do not rise merely because some one's imagination has selected a higher level as more appropriate. In regard to the influence on prices of "depreciated dollar exchange," last year's 30 per cent discount on the pound sterling did not prevent the British "price average" from falling below that of September, 1931. It is true enough that German prices rose wildly when the mark went to 90 per cent discount on the exchange market of 1922 and French prices when the franc fell to 85 per cent discount in 1926. But it also happens that the then irredeemable French paper currency had been increased 11,000,000,000 francs in 1926, on top of the prodigious war-time inflation, and the addition of 1922 to the German currency was 1,000,000,000 marks. To a very considerable extent, the break in the markets connoted the shattering of unwarranted illusions. But that does not alter the fact that the preceding recovery in America, both in prices of goods and in prices of securities, had a sound underlying basis in the ending of the long depression.

HERE, THERE and EVERYWHERE

Blindfold Chess Record

Dr. Alekhine has raised his own world's record by four boards in playing 32 simultaneous games of chess blindfold at the Chicago World's Fair.

Rehl, the Czech, is the only other chess master to attempt feats of this order. His record stands at 24.

Capablanca, at the height of his success, always refused to play blindfold. He considered that it imposed an unjustifiable strain on his brain and must lead ultimately to a breakdown.

Spain's Crime Wave

Madrid. The Spanish police force and the Civil Guards are to be reorganised. The police force is to be enlarged. This is Spain's first move to counter the national crime wave.

An extraordinary credit of $88,000 has been authorised for the purchase of arms and fast motorcars for police headquarters as part of the new scheme.

The Government has also prepared a public order law, to be approved by the Spanish Parliament, which provides for trial without jury of "terrorists." At present, it is said, juries are frequently afraid to return the verdict of guilty.—Reuter.

The extent to which crimes of violence are sweeping Spain to-day is illustrated by a Reuter message from Barcelona, which reports that 115 murders, 119 assaults and 1263 robberies have been recorded there since March.

Not According to Euclid. A straight line is the hardest distance between two points.

The Prop. Three men returned very late from the club. Determining to see each other home they took a taxi to one address, lined themselves shoulder to shoulder on the doorstep, pressed the bell and waited.

When an indignant wife appeared, she was invited to pick out her husband.

"It's you you brute!" she said, furiously, pointing to the man in the middle.

"Oh, no," said one of the flankers, earnestly, "you can't take that one away, because if you do my friend and I will fall down."

A Great Success.

"Rotten," said the critic. "Deficient in spirit and technique," said the artist.

"Inexcusably vulgar," said the preacher.

"Without ideals or realisms," said the philosopher.

"Precisely," said the film producer.

"I'm afraid I shall require some proof of your identity, madam," said the bank cashier, when the nose-too-fair woman presented a cheque for payment. And he looked the kind of man who thoroughly enjoys a little unpleasantness.

"Oh, I'll give you as many proofs as you like," she answered, sweetly. "I'm the 'old girl with the face' on the other side of the fence, who will have her 'infernal wireless' up against your dining-room wall."

Last night when you got in, your wife said to you: 'If you don't turn up at a respectable hour to-morrow night, I'll give you such a piece of my mind as you've never heard yet, you unfeeling, selfish—'

The cashier paid out quickly.

UNKNOWN MEN MAKE MEDICAL HISTORY

B.M.A. ENTER SECOND CENTURY

TREMENDOUS STRIDES IN SCIENCE

(By George Godwin.)

London. In Ancoats Hospital, Manchester, the surgeon whose knife has revealed a condition calling for the aid of the pathologist, now speaks direct to his laboratory colleague from the operating table. He does so by telephone.

The pathologist has the tissue specimen in his hands within two minutes of its removal from the patient. His staff, with the urgency of a fire brigade answering a call, prepare microscopic slides, identify the character of the disease cells and, within seven minutes, report back to the waiting surgeon. The operation proceeds.

This system, new to-day, will become commonplace practice to-morrow.

Looking To The Future

The medical profession is unlike any other in that its ultimate objective is, in a sense, self-destruction. When medical science has triumphed over the myriad diseases that pester mankind, its task will become merely that of the policeman.

Already, though the Ministry of Health and other public health authorities, we can see the trend towards the doctor as policeman.

The future will see an extension of such services, for the education of the public upon health questions, no less than national measures against outbreaks or the creation of conditions propitious for them, foreshadow the time when disease will be a crime against the community.

In the past the physician was a man of mysteries. He was invested in the popular mind with the superlatives of the magician.

To-day, the doctor generally assumes the intelligence of his patient and invites co-operation. He is ready to confess to fallibility. He knows that in the wide dissemination of knowledge lies one great weapon against the common disease. He believes in hygienic education for all.

In Dublin this week a proposal carried by the British Medical Association indicates how this spread of knowledge will be organised. It is a proposal that the advertising of public medical services should be allowed.

An army requires thorough and scientific training. With the army against disease this means thorough and scientific education.

Medical students to-day spend between five and a half to seven years in qualifying. According to many leading medical educationists that education is largely useless.

The medical student is taught the supreme importance of committing facts to memory: he is not taught to think.

CRIME AND THE HEAT WAVE.

Are They Connected?

STATISTICS FROM FRANCE.

Paris.

Has the heat wave any influence on crime? It seems reasonable to ask. Here is a little list of violent deaths in France for one day only.

In Paris a woman of 75 was found strangled in the bathroom of a boarding house. Her jewels were missing.

A carpenter at Courbron shot his wife dead in a drunken quarrel.

At Meudon a Pole who had been evicted shot his former landlord and committed suicide.

In Lille an elderly woman was found by the nephew strangled and stabbed in the café that she owned. The place had been ransacked.

In Troyes a farmer seriously wounded a girl who refused his advances, and then shot himself dead.

At Caen a seven-year-old girl was found strangled by the roadside.

At Clermont (Oise) a 64-year-old widower seriously injured a woman who was busy with her washing, and then hanged himself in his own attic.—Reuter.

TEMPORARY GAOL
AT LAICHKOK*$55,000 Required To
House 200.*$65,900 SUPPLEMENTARY EXPENDITURE

Expenditure of $55,000 for a temporary building to house 200 prisoners, at Laichikok, is included on the memoranda of supplementary expenditure dated August 25. The vote for this amount is entered in view of the overflow of prisoners from Victoria Gaol, and the building will be similar to those already in existence at Laichikok.

The total supplementary expenditure amounts to $65,900. Of this, a sum of $8,000 is a contribution towards the $10,000 work of rebuilding and enlarging the St. Louis Industrial School. This allotment will be offset by a saving of $8,150 as a result of the Aberdeen Industrial Home not being ready this year.

A supplementary vote of $1,000 is required to provide for the increased number of rewards paid for the arrest of returned banished, while $500 is required in order that further improvements should be carried out at the Volunteer Camp at Fanling before the 1933-34 camp season opens. The latter sum will be met by savings under the Armoured Car estimates for 1933.

Owing to the stationing of a full-time medical officer at Un Long, it is considered necessary for a telephone connection between Au Tau Police Station and the dispensary at Un Long, and a sum of $750 has been voted for this purpose.

FARMER KILLED
AT LANTAU.*Wife Witnesses Her Husband's Murder.*ASSAILANTS ESCAPE.

A Chinese farmer, Wan Kau, living at Kuen Sun village, Tai O, on Lantau Island, was murdered yesterday about 6 p.m. by two men who attacked him with a heavy bamboo pole, according to a police report.

Chung Tang Tai, the widow of the murdered man, said that she and her husband were sitting outside their hut eating their evening meal when three Chinese, two men and a woman, approached them. The two men attacked her husband and struck him with their fists about the body. One of the men then picked up a heavy bamboo and struck him.

Her husband fell backwards over a small bank and became unconscious, dying shortly afterwards. The assailants made their escape up the mountain side.

MISS N. M. OMAR
PASSES AWAY.*Sister Of Local Sportsman.

Miss Hafesa Mohamed Omar, sister of the well-known Cragen-gover bowls player, Mr. U. M. Omar, passed away at her residence, 355 Hennessey Road, this morning after a lingering illness. Miss Omar had been suffering from typhoid fever for the past three months.

Only 21 years of age, the deceased leaves a mother, two sisters and five brothers, Messrs. U.M., R.M., K.M., O.M., and A.M. Omar.

The funeral which takes place today, will leave Hennessey Road at 5.20 p.m. and will pass the Monument at 5.25 p.m.

News In Brief.

The U.S.S. Sacramento, Coastal Patrol Boat, arrived in the Colony yesterday from the North.

A catalogue of English and Australian flower and vegetable seeds has been issued by Messrs. Graca and Co., of 10 Wyndham St., containing a useful table of times for sowing.

Convicted on a charge of having taken part in a transaction for the sale of a male child, Wong Kwang-tung (11), a man named Pan Sang, an earth cooler, and Leung Ho, 76, widow, were sentenced to twelve months and six months imprisonment respectively, by Mr. Wynne-Jones at the Central Magistracy yesterday afternoon.

BRITAIN'S POPULATION
DECREASING*April-July Figures
Show 21,327 Drop.*DEATH RATE INCREASING

London. The population of England and Wales decreased by 21,327 from April to July owing to the excess of deaths over births.

Events appear to have thus anticipated by seven years the prophecy of Professor A. M. Carr-Saunders, of Liverpool University, who recently said that by 1940 the population of Great Britain would cease to increase and would subsequently decline.

The decrease of 21,327 compares with an increase of 26,578 in the corresponding quarter of 1930, and decreases of 2,545 and 1,336 in 1931 and 1932.

The number of live births registered was 148,675 and the number of deaths 170,002. The births were 3,441 fewer than the number recorded in the corresponding quarter of 1932, and corresponded to an annual rate of 15.0 per 1,000 of the estimated mid-year population.

Of the births 76,086 were males and 72,589 females, giving a proportion of 1,048 males to 1,000 females; the average proportion in the 10 preceding first quarters was 1,046 to 1,000.

Last quarter's deaths were 53,536 more than in the preceding quarter, and 16,551 more than in the corresponding quarter of 1932. They comprised 84,307 males and 85,695 females, a proportion of 984 males to 1,000 females. The death rate was 17.2 per 1,000 of the population or 1.8 per 1,000 above that recorded during the first quarter of 1932.—Reuter.

THIRTEEN YEARS OF
SILENCE*Strange Recluse Sits
And Broods.*"THE MAN FROM AMERICA"

Belgrade. For 13 years now, Antun Buratto has not spoken a single word.

In 1920 he turned up unexpectedly at his brother's house in Zupa, near Dubrovnik in Dalmatia, took up a place in the chimney seats and has refused to leave it ever since. He had spent many years in America, carrying on business as a photographer.

He gives no word of explanation. He just sits silently brooding in the corner. He refuses to move. Only his deep-sunk, cavernous eyes show him to be alive as he sits huddled in his chimney corner, his neglected hair and beard now reaching almost to his waist, his face black with smoke from the fire, his clothes turned to rags.

But during the night, when no-one is about, he is known to creep out of his corner and move stealthily about the room which is his self-imposed prison. Then, when he is alone and unobserved, he will eat the food which is regularly placed on a stool at his elbow.

His brother, who has been looking after him as well as he can since his return, has tried to discover the reason for Antun's remarkable behaviour—but without success.

But his brother remembers that Antun was well dressed and apparently prosperous when he re-appeared just 13 years ago. He can only imagine that the man of silence was robbed of all his savings on the voyage back home.—Reuter.

CHINESE LEAPS
OVERBOARD.*Suicide From Canton Steamer.

A second-class Chinese passenger, about 22 years of age, jumped overboard from the Canton steamer, Tung On, at about 11.15 p.m. on Saturday while the vessel was on its way to Canton.

Captain Muir, Master of the Tung On, at once stopped the ship, but no trace of the man could be found.

MANY MOTORISTS
SUMMONED*Wyndham Street As
Prohibited Area.*SPECIAL POLICE PERMITS NECESSARY

As a result of general complaints from business offices in Wellington Street of cars parking at the junction of Wellington Street and Wyndham Street, several car owners were summoned at the Central Police Court this morning for causing obstruction.

It was stated that the drivers often backed into Wyndham Street, which was closed to traffic, and an accident was recently reported where a car, unable to pull up on the steep incline, backed into a wall and injured a coolie.

Two Chinese car owners were summoned for parking their cars in On Lan Street, off Wyndham Street. It was stated that only four or five car owners, whose offices were close by, had special permission to park there from the Inspector General of Police, paying a fee of $20 a year for the privilege. This number included doctors who had their offices in the King's Theatre Building.

Mr. G. Young, of 77 Wong Nei Chong Road, was fined $15 for driving his car in Wyndham Street without a permit. It was stated that the defendant drove down Wyndham Street and parked his car in On Lan Street.

Lo Wing Hau, was fine $5 for parking his car No. 787 in On Lan Street.

Mr. Charles G. Scicluna, of Savarin House, Kowloon, was fined $7 for causing an obstruction by parking his car in Wellington Street and a further $10 for not having his car licensed. Mr. Scicluna said that he was on his way to the Police Station to license his car when he was stopped by the police.

Mr. B. A. Proulx, the well-known amateur jockey, was also fined $7 for parking his car in Wellington Street.

Mr. A. R. Wong, of 109 Leighton Hill Road, was fined $7 for the same offence and a further $10 for not having renewed the license of his car.

Mr. S. D. Fong, of No. 11 St. Stephen's Road, was fined $5 for the same offence. The Magistrate said that the fine was reduced because the defendant had only been driving for a month.

BRITAIN'S NAVAL

On Empire Defence.

Port Elizabeth. "Britannia no longer rules the waves—not even on paper," declared Vice-Admiral E. R. G. Evans, Commander-in-Chief of the Africa Station, when addressing a local detachment of the Royal Naval Volunteer Reserve.

Emphasising the need of training seamen gunners, he said, "You will realise the necessity when I tell you that they have reduced the Navy below the safety margin. If men are trained to become seamen, gunners and war comes suddenly, we will have men able to shoot, and in this part of the Empire we rely on you men to become seamen gunners. We have the guns and ammunition at Simon's Town. All we want is the man power. If you produce that, you have done your share towards Empire defence."—Reuter.

BRITISH ROSES ARE
WORLD'S BEST.*Garden Of 16,000 Trees
In London.

Reasons why British rose trees are best for British gardens are given in a guide to the rose garden in Regent's Park, which the Empire Marketing Board issued in co-operation with the Office of Works.

They are thoroughly hardy and therefore transplant satisfactorily. They are already adapted to soil and climate.

They are supreme of their kind. Of all the varieties sold on the Continent and in America over 70 per cent are of British origin.

The guide describes over a hundred varieties of roses to be found among the 16,000 trees given for the garden by British growers.

To-Day's Short Story.

THE FOG ON THE
BLUMLIS ALPBy Francis
Gribble.

THOUGH there was a tragedy to be played out presently on these beside the dazzling snowfields of the Blumlis Alp, both the players were unaware of it as yet, and only one of them knew that the ground plan of a tragedy was laid.

George Heriot knew this, it is true, and Basil Gordon's wife, who was waiting for them below at Kandersteg, knew it also; but Basil Gordon himself knew nothing. If any one had come and told him that his companion and friend whom he trusted had done him the wrong that a man must not pardon even if he will, he would probably have knocked him down first and asked for an explanation afterwards. So no one did tell him; though many guessed the truth, and it may be, he would never have discovered it had not an accident revealed it to him.

The two men had come down together over the Dunder Pass that leads to Kandersteg from Lauterbrunnen. It is quite an easy pass; there are no snowfields to plough through, no yawning berg-schunders to cross, no narrow ledges of rock to creep along. The only difficulty consists in choosing, towards your journey's end, the one particular grassy slope among many which does not lead over a thousand feet or so of precipice into the Oeschinen See. It is a pass, indeed, that you can make quite easily without a guide, provided that the weather holds good and you know the way.

Otherwise, no doubt, there might be trouble. But George Heriot knew the way—there were few Alpine highways or by-ways that he did not know by heart—and Basil Gordon trusted his knowledge, and agreed to make the journey with him.

They had crossed the pass itself, and were sitting down to rest on the ridge of the lateral moraine that towers above the Blumlis Alp glacier. The hour was growing late, and a white mist was blowing up towards them from the lower reaches of the valley; but, as they were tired, and as George Heriot claimed to be able to find the way down to the shores of the Oeschinen See blindfold, it did not frighten them into hurrying. And it was while they sat and rested there, that the accident happened through which Basil Gordon learnt the truth.

The last of the cold meat and Gruyere cheese and Alpine honey was eaten, and the last bottle of white wine emptied, and they filled their pipes to smoke. While George Heriot was fumbling in his side-pocket for the matches he carried loose there he accidentally pulled out a letter and dropped it on the ground. A gust of wind blew it over to the place where Basil Gordon sat. He reached out his arm and picked it up, to hand it back, and noticed that it was in his wife's handwriting.

TO-MORROW'S STORY

by D. K. Broster.

There was nothing extraordinary in that. Gordon would almost certainly have returned it without comment, never supposing it to be anything but an old invitation to lunch or dinner, or some equally innocent communication, written at his own desire. But the quick, peremptory tone in which the other exclaimed, "Gordon, give me that letter, please," impelled him, almost involuntarily, to throw a casual glance over it.

The few words that just caught his eye were sufficiently surprising to induce him to read further, more especially as his companion repeated his demand:

"Gordon, I asked you to give me back that letter."

"I have a right to read this letter, Heriot," he answered, "and I mean to do so."

Basil Gordon was a strong man, albeit an indifferent mountaineer, and if it came to a physical struggle for the possession of the document there was not a question that he would get the best of it. George Heriot was conscious of this, so he made no resistance, but waited in terror for the inevitable thunderbolt to fall. Slowly, from the first line to the last, Basil Gordon read the letter through. Unless it were a forgery—and for such a forgery no motive was imaginable—it left him absolutely no room for doubt. The truth—the hideous truth that he had never so much as guessed or dreamed of—stood out before him in all its ghastly nakedness. He felt like a man dazed, and pressed his hand against his forehead, doubting the evidence of his own senses. But when he had read it through a second time at last he realised the fearful discovery he had made. Then he tore it in two, and put the pieces in his pocket, and stood up in his wrath and faced the man who had betrayed him.

The fog that streamed up the valley was fast thickening around them. Already, though they were standing only some six or seven yards apart, they could barely distinguish each other's figures in the dimness.

Basil Gordon wanted neither breath nor time in reproaches or recriminations, but bluntly and passionately began:

"You scoundrel!"

The other stood dumb before him, and he continued:

"You scoundrel! If I treated you as you deserve, I would fling you down on to that glacier, and leave your bones to rot there till the Day of Judgment."

As he spoke he advanced a step or two along the narrow ridge of the moraine, and the other retired an equal space before him. Thoroughly frightened as he was, he knew that that threat, at all events, could not be executed by the inferior cragman.

"You won't do that, Gordon," he stammered out. "You have your remedy, but you won't do that."

Mr. Edward Roscoe Mathews, a prominent American sportsman, who has been a visitor to England during the last few months, entertained at Grosvenor House, Park Lane, an assembly of men prominent in all phases of athletic endeavor, within reasonable distance of the Olympic Games at Los Angeles—which country home of Mr. Mathews—Sir Noel Curtis Bennett was the guest of this American sportsman, and Mr. Mathews discussed the possibility of sport providing a tie between nations stronger than all the economic and other conferences the world could cement.

As a consequence, Mr. Mathews promised Sir Noel that, in recognition of what he and Sir Harry Preston, of Brighton, had done in the interests of international sport, he would present a Good-will Cup in the name of youth, friendship, and peace to any movement which these two sportsmen thought would produce the most lasting effect. Sir Noel and Sir Harry decided that the cup should be offered to the English Schools Association, and on behalf of this organization it was received by Mr. J. H. Bingham, the chairman, who expressed the view that such a token of goodwill would have a big influence in cementing the friendly relationships between the two great English-speaking nations.

Mr. Roscoe Mathews emphasized the fact that he loved England where he had spent many happy days racing, hunting, and in other pastimes. At the same time, he loved his own country, and the cup symbolized his earnest prayer that the young generations of the two countries might attain to a friendship that would kindle the flame of universal peace.

Cardiff City, who four years ago were in the First Division, are attempting a comeback which will raise them to Second Division status. In beating Reading, one of the strongest teams in the southern section, at Ninian Park yesterday they have given their supporters every reason to be optimistic. It was their second win in as many Threatened with extinction last season, Clapton Orient have commenced the season with a win in their first home game. Their neighbours, Charlton Athletic, were ten.

Bainsley maintained their 100 per cent record and have yet to concede a goal.

SHANGHAI Y.M.C.A. ACCEPT V.R.C. INVITATION TO COLONY

PROVINCIAL MEETING

Extraordinary Condition In Invitation.

CANTON MAY SECURE BEST COLONY STARS.

(By CRAWL.)

At a meeting of the Chinese Amateur Athletic Federation last week it was unanimously decided that those Chinese Clubs in the Federation who desired to send a team of swimmers up to Canton for the Provincial Meeting and were willing to pay their own expenses would be permitted to do so.

This year, unlike 1932, the Federation were not invited to compete in the Canton Provincial Meeting, but the invitation was made an open one, and any Club wishing to send representatives up to Canton could do so, but the Federation did not regard with favour.

The condition was that swimmers, other than Canton residents, who took part in the Provincial meeting would have to represent Canton instead of Hong Kong at the Nanking Meeting on the "Double Tenth" (October 10).

The Federation have circularised the various affiliated Clubs and have advised them to call their own Club meetings before coming to any definite decision.

C.B.C. GALA TO-MORROW

THE seventh aquatic swimming gala of the Chinese Bathing Club will take place at their North Point Bathing pavilion to-morrow night, commencing at 7.30 p.m.

The following is the full programme:

Men's 500 Metres Team Race (50, 100, 150 and 200 Metres each).
Ladies' 75 Yards Medley (Breast, Back and Free Styles).
Men's 50 Metres fully dressed Race (European Clothes plus coat and shoes).
Men's 100 Metres Novices Race.
Men's 100 Metres Medley Race (Four Styles).
50 Metres Handicap for Children under 4 feet 6 inches.
50 Metres Mixed Team Race (Competitors will hold a tray above their heads carrying fruit and must pass the tray to their Lady colleagues).
Fancy Diving—Open to members of the H.K.I.A.S.A.

SWIMMING JOTTINGS

S. H. Garrod, the holder of the Colony Long Plunge Championship, who has entered the Open event at the V.R.C. gala on Saturday, is leaving for Montreal on the Empress of Canada on Friday, and will not be able to compete.

Mr. Y. K. Mok, Chairman of the H.K.I.A.S.A. is presenting a Shield for the Water-Polo League. This has already been won by the Y.M.C.A. "A" team, who have not conceded a point throughout the League.

A 200 Yards Relay, open to affiliated clubs of the H.K.I.A.S.A., will feature the University carnival on September 23.
The other main events are 100, 220 and 440 Yards, 50 Yards Back Stroke, 100 Yards Breast Stroke, Throwing the Polo Ball, Long Plunge and the team race. Additional events are the 50 Yards (Blindfold), 60 Yards Handicap, and Ladies' 50 Yards.

The Chung Sing Benevolent Society are holding their second night swimming gala on September 3 at their West Point Bathing Pavilion, commencing at 7.30 p.m. sharp. Two events open to affiliated Clubs of the Hong Kong International Amateur Swimming Association will be featured in the programme.

The first will be a relay for six men over 200 metres, three men swimming breast stroke and three free style alternately.
The second open event is a relay for Ladies and Boys under 15 years of age, each to swim 50 Metres.

Swimming Personalities III

A. G. Donn (Y.M.C.A.)

A. G. Donn, captain of Swimming at the European Y.M.C.A. and one of the best short distance sprinters in the Colony, was born in Glasgow in 1907.

He first learned to swim in 1922 at the Victoria Swimming Baths in Glasgow, and in the same year entered the championship class by winning the 75 Yards Scottish School-boys' title.

After several minor successes in the next two years he took part in the Junior Championships of Scotland in 1924 and was placed second. He next entered into prominence when in 1929 he represented Middlesex County in the Inter-County team races.

In that same year he first represented the Mercantile Bank of India in the Eastern Banks Swimming Championships, held in London, and met with considerable success, taking first place in the Men's 80 Yards Free Style, the Men's 88 Yards Free Style and the Men's 88 Yards Back Stroke championships. At that Meeting he greatly assisted his Bank to win the Aggregate Cup.

In 1930 he was transferred East and first took part in competitive swimming at Bombay where he won the Bombay Swimming Club's 100 Yards Championship in 63.1/5 seconds. In the same year he also won the Bombay Two Lengths (166.2/3 yards) championship in 37.2/5 seconds, and repeated his success in the following year.

Last year he was transferred to Hong Kong where he won the European Y.M.C.A.'s 50 and 100 Yards Championships.

Donn is in three finals in the H.K.I.A.S.A. championships and is one of the best all-round European swimmers in the Colony.—Crawl.

ATHLETIC LEAD POLO LEAGUE.

Two Teams Maintain 100 Per Cent.

(By CRAWL.)

The Chinese Athletic Association "A" and "B" water-polo teams are still leading the Chinese Water-Polo League having retained maximum points to date.

Fukien, one of last year's strongest contenders for the championship, are the present wooden spoonists, having lost all their five games, while the Young Companions, who are one of the strongest Chinese teams in the H.K.I.A.S.S. League, have only won two of their five games.

The absence of Shek Kam-Pul, one of their best men, and several other regular players, who are now in Canton preparing for the Canton Provincial Meeting has greatly handicapped the Young Companions.

The Chinese Bathing Club, last year's winners of the now defunct "B" Division, have only won one of their games. They have been very unfortunate this year in losing several of their more experienced players on the score of business pressure.

The following is the League table to date:

	P	W	L	D	Pts
Chinese Athletic "A"	5	5	0	0	10
Chinese Athletic "B"	4	4	0	0	8
Young Companions	5	2	2	1	5
C. Civil Servants	4	1	2	1	3
Chinese Bathing Club	4	1	3	0	2
Chung Sing B.S.	4	1	3	0	2

PROSPECTS FOR THE WEEK'S FINALS

KWOK SHOULD WIN TWO ASSOCIATION TITLES

EUROPEAN Y.M.C.A. CHALLENGE COMBINED CHINESE

(By CRAWL.)

THE Hong Kong International Amateur Swimming Association Championships have placed the newly-founded governing body on a very firm footing in Colony swimming circles. Tremendous enthusiasm has been displayed by Chinese competitors, who, for the first time in the history of Colony aquatic meetings, have entered en masse. Judging from the interest aroused by the heats last week, the Finals, which take place in the Y.M.C.A. bath on Thursday and Friday at 5.45 p.m. and on Saturday at 9 p.m., are likely to be witnessed by a capacity crowd.

With a possibility of capturing seven out of the nine Men's events and four out of the seven Ladies' events, the European Y.M.C.A. look like reversing their former defeat, on June 24, at the hands of the Combined Chinese Affiliated Clubs.

The spreading out of the championships over a period of three days has enabled those Clubs with a scarcity of swimmers to participate in the majority of events without the necessity of keeping any swimmers in reserve.

The result of the heats last week should show ultimately that, in addition to those swimmers in the Colony who have already entered the championship class and have had their names recorded in gold, there are quite a number of potential Colony champions among the European and Chinese competitors.

The outstanding performance in the championships to date has been that of Kwok Chun-hang (S.C.A.A.). He has entered five finals besides setting up a very fast time in the Men's 200 Yards Breast Stroke Championship.

Kwok is a firm favourite for the final of this event and is a likely candidate for the 100 Yards Free style after clocking the excellent time of 63.2/5 secs. in his heat.

Although Kwok registered the same time as A. G. Donn in this event, he was taking part in another event on the same night and had something in reserve. It is probably that he will win the event and set up an Association record.

Kwok's Meteoric Rise
Kwok Chun-hang, the most versatile of the Chinese swimmers, has had a meteoric rise in the Colony swimming world.

Having entered the championship class only three years ago, he provided a sensation last year when he shattered Wan Kwong-ting's Colony Breast Stroke record in the V.R.C. bath. He then broke his own record at the Association Gala on June 24.

His amazing stamina was clearly demonstrated last week when he took first places in two heats and gained a fastest loser's place in the 440 Yards following his sensational Breast Stroke win.

He also took places in the 880 Yards Free Style and the Men's 100 Yards Back Stroke in which he very nearly beat Leung Shui-man. In the latter event he has only to improve on his turns to be the probable winner.

Win For Leung?
Leung Shui-man (C.B.C.), A. G. Donn (Y.M.C.A.) and Chan Fook-sing (C.S.C.) have each entered three finals.

Leung Shui-man is practically assured of one success—the 100 Yards-Back Stroke. Championship and may possibly repeat his former success over A. G. Donn (Y.M.C.A.) in the 50 Yards Free Style Championship.

Donn, who was the only entrant from his club to enter for five events, will figure in the three sprint finals. He may possibly carry off the 100 Yards Free Style, but he will have to clip a second or two off his time if he is to win.

In this event Donn will be seriously challenged by Kwok Chun-hang (S.C.A.A.) and H. Lange (Y.M.C.A.), whom he beat in the heats by 7/5 seconds.

Lange Should Win.
H. Lange and W. T. Campbell (Y.M.C.A.) who are also in three finals, are both almost assured of at least one title. Lange is practically a certainty for the 220 Yards Free Style and a possible contender for the 100 Yards and seconds off that of Kwok Chun-

Swimming Personalities IV

Edward Roza (V.R.C.)

HOLDER of the Colony Diving Championship title for the past six years, winner of the event at the Victoria Aquatic Meeting since 1931, an Interporter in 1931 and a consistent winner of the V.R.C. member's aggregate cup Edward Roza, at the age of 25, has set up a record unequalled by any local diver aspirant in the past, and one which will be difficult to emulate in the future.

Edward Roza developed his almost perfect style in 1925 while still a school-boy at Laichikok beach, where he used the Standard Oil Pier as his diving platform. Competition was very keen amongst the little band of enthusiastic swimmers, which included Lionel Roza-Pereira, H. M. Remedios, and W. Lawrence, and all have since made a name for themselves in local aquatics. In 1927 he won the Colony title at his first attempt, and this year he is a hot favourite for his seventh successive title.

In 1931 he represented the Colony against Shanghai in the Northern part, and took third place. Roza, remarked that all the dives were from the springboard, and, being unaccustomed to the surroundings, height and power of the springboard, he was on that occasion unable to give of his best.

He is also a good swimmer, being a member of the V.R.C. "B" class. He has competed on several occasions in the harbour race.

Roza, is the only diver in the Colony who has successfully demonstrated the spectacular Flying Dutchman and High Platform Back Dive. Both these dives are the result of many year's practice and are always included in his frequent exhibitions at the V.R.C. galas.—G. L.

Chan Will Extend Kwok.
In the 50 Yards he will be meeting more than his match in Leung Shui-man and Donn, and will probably have to be content with a third place. In the 220 Yards Free Style he will again be meeting his match in Lange and Campbell, and will probably be beaten for third place by Tsang Ho-fook (C.B.C.), who swam well against Campbell in the heats.

In the 200 Yards-Breast Stroke Chan is capable of better things and I feel sure that he may possibly give Kwok the race of his life in this event.

Leung Wai-sang (S.C.A.A.) is in the final of the Men's 50 Yards Free Style and may possibly be a contender for third place against Chan Fook-sing (C.S.C.).

Schneider Not Fancied
W. A. Schneider (Y.M.C.A.), is taking part in the Half Mile but I fear that he has very little chance, but Wong Yiu-man (S. C. A.A.) will have to reveal better form than he has displayed if he is to secure third place.

Wong Suen-man (S.C.A.A.) and Wong Yat-hung (C.B.C.) are in the Men's 200 Yards Breast Stroke, and I think that Wong Suen-man will take third place, with Chan Fook-sing (C.S.C.) second, and Kwok first.

Lai Im-cheuk (C.S.S.C.) and Kan Yee-ming (S.C.A.A.) are not expected to survive the pace set by Leung Shui-man and Kwok Chun-hang, the favourites, in the 100 Yards-Back Stroke.

In the Open Diving, it looks very much like a clean sweep for the Y.M.C.A., with E. F. Selk as a warm favourite.

V.R.C. COLONY CHAMPIONSHIPS ON SEPTEMBER 25 TO 28.

The Open Colony Aquatic Championships, which are being sponsored by the Victoria Recreation Club, will be held on September 25 to 28. These dates were decided last night at a committee meeting of the V.R.C.

Full particulars of the events and entry forms are being forwarded by the V.R.C. to all swimming clubs in the Colony.

TWO OPEN EVENTS AT V.R.C. EXTRA GALA

Doris Hunt And Mrs. McMahon Competing.

FULL ENTRY LIST.

Two Open Colony Championship events, a quarter-mile senior class members' handicap race, a ladies race which has attracted six competitors, and an inter-members water-polo match, are the attractions at the extra V.R.C. gala, which will be held on Saturday, September 2, at 9.15 p.m.

In the Long Plunge Championship event ten entries have been received, including J.-R. Soares and J. A. Victor. One competitor from the Chinese Athletic Association, who has yet to be nominated, will also take part.

Seven entries have been received for the Throwing the Water-Polo Ball Championship event, which has also attracted an entry from the Chinese Athletic Association.

In the Ladies' 50 yards handicap race six entries have been received, including those of Miss Doris Hunt and Mrs. McMahon.

The final item on the programme is an inter-members Water Polo match, in which the Club's best players will be in action. Heats for the Club members' events will take place to-morrow at 5.30 p.m.

TEAM COMING IN OCTOBER

Shanghai Association Sanction Trip.

INTERPORT SIDE THAT IS VISITING JAPAN.

(By G. L.)

The Shanghai European Y.M.C.A. swimming team, which is to visit Japan next month to meet Kobe in an official Interport contest, are to visit Hong Kong in October when they will oppose the Victoria Recreation Club.

The team is understood to be identical to that which will visit Japan, with the exception of the water polo team. It will include F. Hedley, hailed as the best European swimmer in the Orient.

The Shanghai Swimming Association granted permission for the extended trip to Hong Kong, and the Y.M.C.A.'s letter was received by Mr. P. A. Dixon, Hon. Secretary of the V.R.C., last night.

The actual date of the forthcoming contest cannot be fixed at the moment, as the Shanghai team have not yet completed their sailing arrangements, but the V.R.C. will make known the date as soon as possible.

The committee of the Shanghai Amateur Swimming Association have selected the following team to represent Shanghai in the Interport gala at Kobe: September 16 and 17—50 metres free style, Hedley; 100 metres free style, Hedley; 200 metres free style, Hedley; 400 metres free style, Johnston; 800 metres free style, Johnston; 1000 metres free style, Johnston; 1500 metres free style, Johnston; 2000 metres free style, Johnston; 2500 metres free style, Johnston; 3000 metres free style, Johnston; 3500 metres free style, Johnston; 4000 metres free style, Johnston; 4500 metres free style, Johnston; 5000 metres free style, Johnston; 5500 metres free style, Johnston; 6000 metres free style, Johnston; 6500 metres free style, Johnston; 7000 metres free style, Johnston; 7500 metres free style, Johnston; 8000 metres free style, Johnston; 8500 metres free style, Johnston; 9000 metres free style, Johnston; 9500 metres free style, Johnston; 10000 metres free style, Johnston.

A. C. Sinclair who has been active in swimming and water polo for many years in Shanghai has been selected to captain the Shanghai Interport Swimming team, and G. A. Johnson, Hon. Secretary and Treasurer of the Association, will be manager.

According to present arrangements, the Shanghai Interport Swimming team will leave Shanghai by the "Shanghai Maru" on Wednesday morning, September 13, arriving in Kobe on the afternoon of the 15th, and they will play their first water polo match that evening, against the Kobe team. They will return to Shanghai on Wednesday, September 20.

COLONY SURFBOARD CHAMPIONSHIPS.

October 15 Fixed For Causeway Bay.

It has been decided to hold the Colony's Surfboard Championships (as distinct from the Regatta) at the Causeway Bay typhoon shelter on October 15.

Mr. Eric Friman, who was mainly responsible for the recent Surfboard Regatta at Repulse Bay, will promote the Championships, and will be assisted by the Victoria Recreation Club.

The programme of events will be the same as those held at the Regatta, which are recognised as the official events in Surfboard racing. The events are:—Men's Half Mile, Ladies' 100 Yards, Boys' 100 Yards, Men's 100 Yards, Men's (over 100) 100 Yards, Ladies' 440 Yards, Relay and Men's 440 Yards Relay.

The Royal Life Saving Society tests which were carried out at Clearwater Bay on Saturday afternoon by members of the Chinese Company of the Hong Kong Police Reserve, under the direction of Sub-Inspector E. J. Hupf, resulted in the following being successful: S.I. David Lole, P.C. B54 Chak Pui-tai, P.C. B55 Wog Yok-pui and P.C. B42 Wong King-cheun.

The Fog On The Blumlis Alp

"Yes, by God!" Gordon answered, seeing the impossibility of this immediate vengeance. "I have my remedy, and I mean to take it. You're afraid of me now, you coward; but you'll be more scared still when you stand up to my pistol at fifteen paces. I may not be able to climb mountains, but I can shoot straight, Heriot. You know that I can shoot straight, don't you?"

"No," he added, as a further thought struck him, "you won't refuse to fight me. You won't dare. If you won't stand up to me like a man, I will shoot you like a dog, and risk the consequences."

He meant every word he said, and George Heriot knew it. He was a coward, and his cheeks were blanched, though Basil Gordon could not see it for the mist. Then his fears suggested an idea to him, and in the white darkness of that fog he saw his one chance of ultimate deliverance from danger.

"You needn't be afraid," he said. "I will meet you and fight you, when and where you like—all ways supposing that you get off this mountain alive. Under the circumstances you will hardly expect me to show you the way down. The track is a little awkward in the fog. I hope you'll find it."

So speaking he turned away and disappeared into the mist. For a few minutes his feet were heard plunging in the loose and treacherous shale, and then there was no sound save the noise of the streams that ran out of the glacier and bounded down over the rocks in cataracts.

Left to himself, Basil Gordon had but little notion of the proper route to take to get safely down to Kandersteg. By daylight he could have found the way easily enough with ordinary caution. But now the unnatural darkness of the fog was beginning to be complicated by the natural darkness of the night, and he could barely see his hand before his face.

Fortunately, he had taken a general survey of the track before the fog came on, and knew that he must first follow the line of the lateral moraine, and then ascend to the left, instead of taking what, in the dark, would have seemed the more obvious course of descending to the right. For the route to the right led only the cliffs down which the glacier streams foam and tumble, but where no human foot could find a place to stand, while that to the left leads to the beginning of that intricate system of grass slopes which constitutes the one puzzle of the descent.

To get there it is necessary to cross all these little glacier cataracts aforesaid. By the help of his alpenstock a man can leap across them in places. To some of them, boulders, conveniently situated, serve as stepping stones; but, as he could not see his way, Basil Gordon had to wade through them with imminent danger, where the stream ran strongly, of being washed off his feet.

It was an inexpressibly tedious process. At times he stumbled over stones he could not see, and bruised himself and nearly sprained his ankle. At other times he sank nearly up to his knees in the damp shale, which seemed to threaten to absorb him like a quicksand. At last, however, he got finally clear of the moraine. The ground was harder and the rocks were fewer, and he was able to clamber up the final ascent.

Considering his inexperience, it was almost a miracle that he had got so far in safety. However, he had only just reached the point at which the real difficulties begin. He now faintly perceived that he was in the midst of a series of low parallel grassy knolls, and that in the hollows between the knolls lay the beginnings of steep grass slopes, by one of which it was necessary for him to descend. There was nothing to guide him to the selection of the right one, so he sat down and reflected for a while. Then he started, experimentally and cautiously, down one of them, holding his alpenstock in readiness to arrest a fall.

Before he had gone many paces the decline began to get ominously abrupt, and, just as the advisability of turning back began to dawn on him, he felt his foot slipping.

With all his might he ground his alpenstock into the soil beside him, and, dropping gently into a sitting posture, managed to prevent himself from falling farther. For five or ten minutes he sat there feeling the cold chill that runs through a man when he has suddenly saved himself from sudden peril. When he had recovered himself a little, and turned to think of climbing back again to the summit of the ridge, he found that he had wholly lost his bearings. His nerves were so shaken that it seemed to him that he was lying with abysmal precipices on every side of him, and he dared not crawl either up or down, lest he should crawl over the cliff's edge into empty space before he was aware of it.

Yet he was resolved to live, if only for the sake of his revenge. "I won't die till I've killed that man," he said to himself, "even if I have to sit here and freeze till the fog lifts."

Then he made his preparations to spend the night upon the slope. He kicked little clefts in the turf in which to rest his heels, and pushed the iron-bod point of his alpenstock farther into the ground, and sat there, resting both his hands on it, that he might not slip. His feet were wet; the temperature was scarcely above freezing point, and he had nothing to eat except a single stick of chocolate. He ate it and sipped the cognac, and so temporarily stayed the faintness that was coming over him. Afterwards, he got out his pipe, and filled and lit it, and so waited for the dawn.

No one but those who have been benighted on the high Alps will fully realise the horrors of that dreadful bivouac. Only a man with a constitution of cast-iron could have lived through it. But Basil Gordon had a purpose to live for, and it supported him.

Towards the morning he even slept a little. The noise of a thunderstorm mingled with his dreams, and he fancied that he was chasing George Heriot through the mountains with his revolver. Then he awoke to find that the mist had scattered, and that the snowfields of the Doldenhorn and Weisses Frau were crimsoned by the newly-risen sun.

"At last," he said to himself. "Now I can go down to Kandersteg and shoot him."

After all, he found he was nowhere near a precipice, and now that he could see the way he was easily able to clamber up again to the place from which he had descended. Nor had he any difficulty in recovering the track. Some rough steps hewn in the rock indicated the beginning of it, and ordinary care enabled him to follow the remainder of the route. There were some small bodies from one of them indicated the little pathway that winds along the cliff high up above the Oeschinen See. Basil Gordon followed it without accident until he reached the little inn kept by the boatman at the further extremity of the lake.

The boatman himself was out upon the lake; but his wife brought Basil Gordon wine, bread and butter, and honey, and set on the kettle to boil to make tea for him. He ate and drank, and though still stiff and miserable, felt revived.

After he had paid the bill, strolled out on the beach. The boatman was rowing back to the shore, and, as Basil Gordon stepped down there, the keel was just grating on the pebbles.

In the bows of the boat lay a ghastly burden—the dead body of a man. The face was hidden by the boatman's coat; but Basil Gordon drew the covering off, and recognised the features of the man who had deserted him on the mountain, meaning that he should die there.

"I found the body there," the boatman said, pointing to a stretch of silver beach across the lake, three-quarters of a mile away.

Basil Gordon lifted the field-glasses he carried, and swept the cliffs with it. What had happened was clear to him beyond doubt or question. In his confidence, George Heriot had lost the way without knowing he had lost it; he had started to descend the wrong grass slope, and, in doing so, had slipped and fallen. And when once a man begins to slide down the steep grass slopes of the Oeschinen Alp, there is no further hope for him. Neither his alpenstock nor his prayers can stay him. There are no roots to cling to; no boulders for his feet to strike against; but he will slide on and on, faster and faster, until there is no more grass slope to slide on, but only empty space to fall through.

The smiling bosom of the little Oeschinen See receives him, and the rest is silence.

"Take care of the body," Basil Gordon said. "I will see that some one is sent from Kandersteg to fetch it. There will be no difficulty about identification."

Then he turned, and struggled down the short remainder of the path to the Hotel Victoria, pondering many things.

Widespread reforms in the medical curriculum are not probable; they are inevitable. Already the curriculum is so hopelessly overcrowded with subjects that, as one professor has put it, it is like a Chinese puzzle: once taken apart, it cannot be fitted together again.

The medical student of 100 years ago had to cope with a mere handful of subjects. Bacteriology was not yet known, radiology, scientific surgery, anaesthetics and psychology, to name but a few of the many subjects now studied, were unknown.

The great physicians of those days were the men who studied their craft in the wards. They learned from observation to read clinical pictures. Their scientific knowledge was limited; but their wisdom was often great.

Conquest Of Cancer?

The rapid increase in medical knowledge will in the future inevitably lead to a system already making its appearance in America. There the general practitioner is being replaced by the firm of practitioners, surgeon, physician and diagnostician. It is the simple recognition of the inevitability of specialisation.

If the present rate of expansion of medical knowledge proceeds unchecked during the next century, its promise to suffering humanity includes the conquest of cancer and the elimination of tuberculosis. It presages in the sphere of prevention, the conquest of all mental disease having a functional origin, and, with that, the abolition of those bodily diseases rooted in mental disorder.

"Will every doctor and surgeon be a State servant? Will our great hospitals, removed from the cities to country places, be taken over by the State? Will our health services be their play, beside our fighting services as part of the national defence?"

Those are questions upon which medical opinion differs to-day. But of one thing we may be reasonably certain. It is that within our own time, medical science will see more spectacular advances than any that have gone before.

Association Championships

Y.M.C.A. Divers Favoured

Morrison, who was surprisingly beaten by Mak Wai-ming (C.S.S.C.) at the last Association gala, will not be in the running this time as the dives he will have to compete against will be too intricate for his liking.

L. Morgan, another Y.M.C.A. entrant who has not yet been seen in action outside of the Y.M.C.A. bath, may spring a surprise and win the event.

In the absence of Miss Yeung Sau-king (S.C.A.A.) who has been regrettably indisposed, Miss Chan Yuk-fai of the Chinese Bathing Club has upheld the prestige of Chinese lady swimmers in the Colony by entering five finals.

Although not nearly so fast as the well-known Miss Yeung, she is a beautiful swimmer, and will probably carry off the 440 Yards Free Style as well as the Back Stroke event.

In the 50 and 100 Yards Miss Chan may be outclassed by Mrs. A. C. Schreuder and Mrs. M. Read of the Y. M. C. A. I have not yet seen her in action in a diving contest, but I believe she is quite good and has a very fair chance of winning the title.

Mrs. Schreuder v. Miss Yeung. Mrs. A. C. Schreuder, probably the finest European lady swimmer in the Colony, should win both the 50 and 100 Yards Free Style championships.

Her speed during the heats was by no means an indication of her best owing to the poor opposition she was pitted against, but she will have to be at her very best in order to beat Miss Yeung Sau-king in the 50 Yards Free Style, as I think the Chinese girl will win.

Probably the two most popular swimmers in the Colony, they have not yet failed to draw enormous crowds when competing against one another. Although they will only be seen together in one individual championship, they will again meet in the final of the 200 Yards Team race. Not many will forget that glorious finish last June when Miss Yeung Sau-king swam brilliantly to give the Combined Chinese ladies victory by a narrow margin in the invitation team race.

Mrs. Schreuder is also the favourite for the Ladies' 200 Yards event.

CINEMA NOTES

MAIL REVIEW

"LUCKY DEVIL"—CENTRAL THEATRE.

"Lucky Devils," now showing at the Central Theatre, is an exciting story of the stunt-men of Hollywood who risk their lives daily to add realism to the films. The picture contains many thrills and the leading players, Bill Boyd and Dorothy Wilson, act their parts splendidly.

William Gargan, Creighton Chaney (son of the late Lon Chaney) and Bill Bakewell are seen as reckless stunt-men who are ordered to carry out dangerous stunts, which mean almost certain death, by a fiendish director, played by Alan Roscoe.

MAIL REVIEW

"PLUNDER"—KING'S THEATRE.

"Plunder," now showing at the King's Theatre, is a first-rate comedy featuring the two famous comedians Ralph Lynn and Tom Walls.

The plot concerns the efforts of a Mrs. Hewitt to deprive her niece of her inheritance. Her plans, however, are frustrated by two happy-go-lucky adventurers, in the persons of Ralph Lynn and Tom Walls, who burgle Mrs. Hewitt's house and recover the will by which the niece's right to the property is proved.

Winifred Shotter, as the niece, is a very charming actress, while Mary Brough, as the conspiring aunt, plays her part splendidly.

"Plunder" is full of laughter, capital entertainment, and an attraction that will please everybody.

MAIL REVIEW

"TO-NIGHT IS OURS"—QUEEN'S THEATRE.

"To-night is Ours," now showing at the Queen's Theatre, offers exceptional entertainment, and is one of the best films to be seen locally for some time.

Fine emotional acting on the part of Claudette Colbert and Fredric March is a feature of the production and the remainder of the cast, including Allison Skipworth, Paul Cavanagh and Arthur Byron, give splendid support.

The story is a love romance between a Princess and a commoner. They meet at a Bal Masque and fall desperately in love, only to have their romance cut short when the Princess is recalled to her country to be married for State reasons.

A year later she is shot at by an assassin but is saved by an unknown hero who turns out to be her lover. They are reconciled and despite difference of social standing, they are lovers again.

MAIL REVIEW

"THE GOLDEN WEST"—ORIENTAL THEATRE.

George O'Brien, who is featured in "The Golden West" now showing at the Oriental Theatre, portrays the first dual role of his career. The story tells of a romance that was halted by a family feud but which is rekindled by the succeeding generation.

George O'Brien plays opposite Helen Chandler, his leading lady in many films, who also plays a dual role in the film.

MAIL REVIEW

"BACHELOR'S AFFAIRS"—MAJESTIC THEATRE.

"Bachelor's Affairs," which is now showing at the Majestic Theatre, shows Adolphe Menjou in what must be one of his best roles in his successful career.

Menjou is seen as a wealthy bachelor who is happy and contented until he is swayed into marriage with a foolish young woman, with a charming gold-digging sister. Then his troubles begin and in trying to get rid of them, he resorts to all manner of subterfuge leading to many complicated situations that are highly amusing.

MAIL REVIEW "DOWN TO EARTH"—STAR THEATRE.

The most fascinating thing about Will Rogers is his natural self. In the Fox picture "Down to Earth," which is now showing at the Star Theatre, he once more acts in that "human" way which has made him so popular. His wise-cracks are famous, and if it is said that his latest picture is packed with them, that will be enough for his legion of admirers.

TRADE TREATY WITH SOVIET.

Interim Arrangement Made By U.S.S.R.

TRADE REPRESENTATIVE CAN GIVE GUARANTEES.

London, To-day. The Foreign Office have been informed by the Soviet Embassy in London that, for the purpose of facilitating commercial operations in the United Kingdom, pending the conclusion of a new trade agreement, the Government of the U.S.S.R. have authorised M. Alexandre Oseraky, in virtue of his position as Trade Representative of the U.S.S.R. in Great Britain, to sign letters of guarantee and to enter into other commercial transactions on their behalf.

Accordingly the Government of the U.S.S.R. will accept full responsibility for all obligations entered into by M. Oseraky, acting for and on behalf of that Government. British Wireless Service.

SWITZERLAND SEND PROTEST TO GERMANY

Continued from Page 1. German Nazis made an incursion into Swiss territory and searched the house of a night watchman employed by an electricity works. Regrets for that incident were tendered on August 12, by the German Minister at Berne on instructions from Berlin.

INTERNATIONAL SIGNAL CODE

New Edition For Sea And Air Services.

TO COME INTO USE FROM JANUARY 1

London, To-day. The Board of Trade announce that the new International Code of Signals notified last year will come into international use on January 1, 1934.

British, French, German and Norwegian editions of the Code have already been published, while the remaining editorial editions by Japan, Spain and the United States are expected before the end of the year.

The British edition consists of two volumes, the first dealing with visual and sound signalling and the second with Radio signalling.

The latter provides for the first time an official international wireless telegraphy code, issued especially for the use of merchant shipping and air services.

The medical section embodies a complete case-stating system and a list of standard quarantine messages.

The Board expresses hope that all ships' masters and officers will familiarise themselves with the new international code before its introduction.—British Wireless Service.

FLOOD REVEALS FORTUNE.

Peasant's Windfall after Storm Havoc.

Belgrade. Gjuri Matijevitch, a peasant of Mala Trkvinja, near Karlovatz, was in despair. A flood destroyed his crops and undermined a huge old beech tree so that it fell and nearly crushed his cottage.

But when he came to clear away the debris Gjuri was surprised to see something shining like gold among the upturned roots of the tree.

The flood had washed out quite a treasure trove. Gjuri found 12 large gold coins and 32 silver ones dating from 1658. They were as well preserved as if they had just left the mint and had been carefully ranged among the roots when the tree was small. — Reuter.

WARNING OF DANGER IN PACIFIC

The Conference, which opened on August 14, was attended by all nations interested in the Pacific, and was presided over by Sir Robert Falconer. Sir William Shenton represented Hong Kong. Another Far Eastern representative was Mr. H. G. Woodhead, of Shanghai.
